TEN CENTS PER WEEK

JACKSONVILLE, ILLINOIS, FRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST 2, 1903

PRICE THREE CENTS

RACE TURNED INTO A FLUKE

YACHTS FAIL TO FINISH WITHIN TIME LIMIT.

The Reliance Again Shows Her Superiority Over the Shamrock—The Next Race will be Sailed Saturday.

New York, Aug. 27.—With the Reliance less than a third of a mile from the finish and the Shamrock hull down on the horizon, fully two miles astern, the fourth race of the cup series was to day declared off because of the expiration of the time limit. Although officially it was no race the defeat administered to the challenger was as ignominious as that which was meted out to the Shamrock in the first race. The Reliance's victory was more decided than that of last Thursday. Outslung, outpointed, outfought, it was a procession from start to finish. The Reliance beat the Shamrock hopelessly in fifteen minutes and twelve seconds, the outer mark twelve minutes and thirty seconds ahead of her, a gain in actual time of eleven minutes and nine seconds.

The real race of the day was not against the Shamrock, but in the actual struggle of the Reliance for half an hour to reach the finish line before the expiring time was up. Had the wind freshened twenty minutes earlier than it did the cup series would have ended to day with three straight wins for the defender and the challenger would have returned home one of the most disastrously worsted challengers in the history of the America's cup contests. Fully as discouraging as the sailing qualities displayed by the challenger was the atrocious manner in which she was handled. The Yankee skipper not only outmaneuvered his rival in a spectacular battle for position at the start, as he has done every time they have met, but, worse still for the downhearted supporters of the Shamrock, Captain Wringe repeated his blunder of Tuesday. He crossed the line with a handicap of sixty-one seconds. Both boats went over after the smoke of the handicap gun, but where both are handicapped, it is only the steepest craft which actually suffers.

The sea was smooth as a floor and a breeze of about four knots blew out of the southwest. The course was laid fifteen miles dead into the wind and return. At the end of the first hour the Shamrock was beaten and interest waned. After rounding the float for the run home and setting his balloons the wind, which had strengthened to six or seven knots on the beat, died down and the towering clouds of canvas drifted lazily on an ocean lane a mile wide between the two divisions of the excursion fleet.

Even in the light air it was astonishing how the defender slipped through the sea. With the gentle breeze distending the surface of her sails and her stern crowded with tars to hold her head up, she moved along serenely and peacefully as if in a dreamless sleep. The gap between her and the challenger steadily widened until two miles parted them. Half an hour from home, when the spectators had abandoned any idea the finish line could be reached in time, the wind suddenly freshened and the Reliance came bounding down at a merry clip. But the wind had come too late and when still a few hundred yards from home the gun boomed across the water. The excursion boatish did on until she crossed the line to give her a rousing welcome and then scampered for New York. Sir Thomas, who heretofore has always followed his champion into the book, sent his steam yacht ahead at full speed, as if to drown out the memory of the ignominious licking he got to day. The next race will be sailed Saturday.

Both boats came up quickly to the hook after failure to finish. Sir Thomas speaking to day's affair said: "I'm willing to repeat what I said this morning. I still have hope, slight though it is. Let us hope for a spanking good breeze Saturday. I called my friends around me this afternoon and was about to express my regret at my failure when I happened to look at my watch. Then I reserved decision, and I may never have to make that speech."

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP.
Newport, R. I., Aug. 27.—H. L. Doherty, of England, to day defeated W. A. Larned, of New Jersey, and to his title as champion of England added that of champion of the United States. The score: 6-0, 6-3, 6-3, 10-8, in Doherty's favor. By defeating Larned to day Doherty made a clean sweep which he and his brother have made in this country this season. Between them they hold both singles and doubles championships of the United States and England, as well as having won the Davis international trophy.

NOT RESULT OF CONTROVERSY.
Washington, Aug. 27.—Public Printer Palmer to day stated that the order for taking the oath of allegiance by employees of the government printing office resulted neither directly nor indirectly from the controversy between the bookbinders' union and Assistant Foreman Miller.

THE DANVILLE MOB

Conviction of Certain of the Offenders Seems Certain.

Danville, Aug. 27.—After the jury was sworn in at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to try eight of the rioters the trial proceeded rapidly. The jury is mainly composed of farmers. State's Attorney Kessler introduced as witnesses Sheriff Whitlock, two deputies, Attorney Wilson and Schreier, Dr. Sims, Noah Jones and C. Lord. Their testimony seriously implicated defendants Winfield Baker, John Walton, Adam Murray, Isaac Slade and Clay Biddle, a young man of 17.

It was testified that Baker shot twice at the sheriff, stoned the jail and threatened to lynch the officers if the keys were not surrendered to him; that Murray, as he was directing the mob how to handle the iron battering rail, was shot in the head with a revolver by Deputy Sheriff Newlin; that Isaac Slade had his fingers shot while he had hold of the rail and then ran around in the mob shaking his bloody hand, saying he would get dynamite and blow up the jail, lynch the sheriff and all his deputies; that Clay Biddle threw innumerable rocks through the windows of the resident portion of the jail. This trial promises to last two or three days.

FIREBUGS BURN BROOM-CORN.

Pana, Aug. 27.—Word has been received from Pana that twenty tons of broom corn which had been stored in a barn belonging to Scott Gill had been burned. The corn was the property of Mr. Gill and, according to the value of broom at the present time and the prospects of its being still higher, the loss was a heavy one, approximating $2,500. Mr. Gill believes the fire was of incendiary origin.

There have been at least a dozen broom corn fires within a radius of a few miles of this city this season and in many cases there are strong suspicions of incendiarism.

TOWN BEARS STRANGE NAME.

Bunker Hill, Aug. 27.—Bened is the strange name of a new town which has been laid out three miles east of Gillespie. The name is not of Arabian origin, as some might suppose, but is made up of a combination of the first name and last initials of Benjamin L. Dorsey, who was the leading spirit in buying up the coal rights and promoting the new railroad to which the town owes its existence.

It is thought that the new community will completely dwarf the little town of Gillespie, near which it is located. Three coal mines are being sunk near the site. Houses are in erection or under contract to the extent of $80. It is expected that the place will have a population of 5,000 before Jan. 1, 1904.

TAZEWELL PIONEERS MEET.

Peoria, Aug. 27.—The twenty-fifth annual reunion of the pioneers of Tazewell county was held at the county fair at Delavan and was the most largely attended in the history of the county. James Haines, Sr., president of the Old Settlers' association, presided and the principal address of the day was delivered by C. A. Ruhl, postmaster of Pekin, who paid a tribute to the memory of Abraham Lincoln.

The report of the secretary showed twelve deaths of members of the association during the past year.

THE PEACE UNION.

Mystic, Conn., Aug. 27.—News of the assassination of the American vice consul at Beirut, Syria, was announced at the afternoon session to day of the Universal Peace union and was received with expression of sorrow. A resolution was adopted recognizing in this result growing out of the military system and trusting that the government, while meeting the crime fairly, "it will be in a spirit of kindness and peace and not in that of retaliation and vengeance, such as has been demanded by Russia of Turkey for a similar cause."

TERRORIZED TOWN.

MAN DROPS DEAD.

Springfield, Aug. 27.—Coroner Baer was notified by telegram this morning that William Gill, of Spaulding, dropped dead while walking on the main street there. Mr. Baer was in Chatham at the time of the arrival of the message, but after arriving here this afternoon at 1 o'clock he left for Spaulding to hold an inquest in the case. No cause of death is given, but heart disease is supposed to be the cause.

AMERICAN VICE CONSUL KILLED

WAS MURDERED BY TURKS WHILE OUT RIDING.

Full Particulars of the Tragedy Not Yet Known—War Vessels Ordered to the Scene by President Roosevelt.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Minister Leishman to day cabled the state department from Constantinople that the American vice consul at Beirut, had been assassinated while driving in his carriage.

The vice consul's name is William C. Magelssen. Minister Leishman has called on the Turkish government for the immediate punishment of the assassins.

The state department has called for further particulars. Magelssen was born in Minnesota and appointed from that state Sept. 20, 1899. He was 39 years old, was educated in the common schools of Minnesota and was a student of the Lutheran college of Decorah, Iowa, three years. For a time he was assistant city assessor of Sioux Falls, S. D., and associate editor of the Echo, published there.

No additional information was obtained at the state department during the day. As yet no request has been made of the navy department that the European squadron be sent to the east and none will be until they ascertain disposition of the Turkish government not to comply with the demands of the state department for immediate apprehension and punishment of the murderer and of local authorities if they were negligent.

In the absence of particulars no motive can be ascertained for the crime and the state department had no means of suggesting a theory as to why the vice consul should have been killed. There have been no complaints about him or his work. The meagre cablegram conveyed last night gave no suggestion of the cause. Although a copy of the dispatch from Leishman was sent to the navy department, not a request was made to the European squadron to the eastern Mediterranean, but the navy department anticipating such an emergency might occur cabled Admiral Cotton to have the squadron in readiness for sailing if it was deemed necessary. The president was informed immediately of the assassination; also of the steps taken by the state department.

AD MURDER

Prompt and vigorous action is being taken by the United States government to secure punishment of those persons implicated in the assassination of Vice Consul Magelssen at Beirut, Syria, Sunday last. Leishman, at Constantinople, who reported the fact to the state department, has been instructed to demand a thorough investigation and punishment of those involved and the European squadron, consisting of three warships, has been ordered to proceed immediately to Beirut to support the demand of the United States minister should this be found necessary.

This latter measure was determined upon as the result of conferences held over telegraph and telephone wires between officials here with the president at Oyster Bay. The latter felt that no time should be lost in dispatching Admiral Cotton's squadron to Turkish waters and he gave instruction to Acting Secretary Darling that immediate orders be given to Cotton to proceed at once. The president's determination to lose no time in getting the squadron to Beirut was also due in part to information received by Acting Secretary Loomis of the state department to night from the president of the board of missions at Boston, indicating that an attempt had been made to burn the Euphrates college building at arHpol. Loomis to night cabled Minister Leishman to make immediate demands on the porte to take adequate measures for the protection of all Americans at Beirut and to prevent an attack on the college. Cotton, who was directed to hold his squadron in readiness to proceed at a moment's notice, cabled the department from Nice, France, as follows:

"The Machias is at Genoa for coal. The Brooklyn has seven days and San Francisco six and a half days coal at ten knots. Cannot exceed that speed with the Machias. If the squadron is going west it should coal at Marseilles, if east at Genoa."

A cablegram was received to night from Leishman that the Turkish minister of foreign affairs at Constantinople denied knowledge of report of the assassination and attempted to discredit it. The acting secretary of the navy sent a cablegram at 12:15 to night to Cotton at Nice.

"Vice consul at Beirut reported assassinated. Proceed immediately to nearest port."

PRESIDENT'S ORDER.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 27.—President Roosevelt to night issued an order the American European squadron under command of Rear Admiral Cotton should proceed at once to Beirut, Syria, to be in readiness to support any demand that the United States may make on account of the assassination there of Vice Consul Magelssen.

The president to night is in close communication with the state department and will be kept fully advised of details of the incident. He will have a conference with the secretary to morrow and a conclusion will be reached as to the attitude of the United States in regard to the latest serious phase to the Turkish situation. The president is concerned over the situation as it has developed to day because it indicated the intolerable condition of affairs in Turkey.

HELD FOR MURDER

Coroner's Jury Holds Husband Caused Wife's Heart Disease by Quarreling.

Belleville, Aug. 27.—Charles Gardner, of Centerville station, has been held to the grand jury on a charge of wife murder on the finding of a coroner's jury, which found that his wife, Linnie Gardner, died of heart failure superinduced by her husband's quarreling with her. The jury returned the verdict of wife murder, holding Gardner without bond.

Gardner denied to the coroner's jury that he was responsible for his wife's death and declared that they never quarreled.

Mascoutah, Aug. 27.—A jury in Justice Bouquet's court in this city has decided that frogs are game and has fined G. R. Glueck, of St. Louis, $25 and the costs on a charge of hunting frogs without a license.

HAD LIVELY FIGHT

French Authorities Lay Siege to Monastery and meet Fierce Resistance.

Paris, Aug. 27.—Expulsion of Redemptorist fathers from the monastery at Les Sables in Orlonne was carried out to day after an exciting experience. The barricaded building was surrounded at three this morning by soldiers, police and firemen. The monastery bells summoned a crowd of people to the defense. Missiles were thrown out of windows and several fathers retreated to the roof, where they continued defense until dislodged by streams of water. Many arrests were made.

IOWA POPULISTS' TICKET.

Des Moines, Aug. 27.—Iowa Populists nominated the following ticket: Governor, H. Weller, Nashua; lieutenant governor, S. T. Harvey, Des Moines; judge supreme court, J. A. Lowenberg, Ottumwa; railroad commissioner, Walter McCullough, Davis City; superintendent public instruction, Hilo Bunce, Stuart.

There was a spirited debate over the use of the term initiative and referendum in the platform. A compromise was finally reached and as adopted the resolution is as follows:

"We endorse the Omaha platform of 1892. We favor adoption of the initiative and referendum in all elections of state and national character. We demand the right to elect to or who shall be public officials and what shall be public policy in government and that all forms or systems invasive of this right shall be repealed.

"We recommend that the foregoing be made part of the national platform at the next national convention."

CRESCUS LOWERS A RECORD.

Dayton, Ohio, Aug. 27.—A new world's record for a half-mile track of 2:08 1/2 was made by Crescues this afternoon. Ketcham drove him and had it not been for a close hitch the record would have been 2:07. Crescues was paced by a running horse and by a steam automobile. This was an experiment and its utility remains to be demonstrated. So easily did Crescues move that few realized the world's record of 2:08 1/2, made by him at Kansas City two years ago, was doomed. The local track record was 2:12. Crescues' time by quarters: .32, 1.03 1/2, 1.36 1/2, 2.08 1/2.

LAWYERS TALK OF TRUSTS

BAR ASSOCIATION HEARS COMMITTEE REPORT

Growing Evils of Combination and Consolidation are Pointed Out—Legislative Restrictions Suggested.

Hot Springs, Aug. 27.—The committee reporting to the American Bar association reviews the question of trusts at length. It says combinations are rapidly driving out of business the small dealer and small producer. These two classes heretofore have furnished the largest number of petitioners in bankruptcy courts. But now industrial combines of gigantic magnitude to large for bankruptcy courts to manage and too rich to need ever be called before it, have been substituted.

"The modern combination's primary object is to control trade and commerce in plain articles of production and substitute a more or less perfect monopoly in place of a more or less free competition," says the report. "It changes entirely the basic principle of commercial relations between man and man, and if they are to continue to grow and develop in the future as in the past will render necessary most important changes in the principles of our commercial laws. Combination as an economic force is fast coming to take the place of competition. Producers are combining, transportation companies combining, tradesmen combining, workmen as well as employers combining; everything seems to be coming into some form of combine and everybody seems to be a combiner. Competition that still remains is fast disappearing. Workmen are refusing to compete for jobs. Labor unions are enlarging the sphere of their activity and extending their operations. Union of employers is still stronger and more far reaching than union of workmen. We are now having combines of companies."

The report here considers in detail organization of various combines and suggests that within the next ten years some one will arise who "will combine into one organization all industries of the land, so the workman who works for wages can find but one possible employer and one purchaser of wares and but one possible dealer," and declares steps toward this are already more than half taken.

"A monopoly is economically desirable; that is, for the monopolist," says the report. "The Standard Oil company is economically folly, for it pays 40 per cent dividends. The sugar trust is economically correct, for whereas individual sugar refiners lost money on small capitalization, the sugar trust pays big dividends on large capitalization. Railroad combines are economically imprudent, for they pay."

The report says the law of supply and demand cannot be relied upon to limit the growth of combines and if they are undesirable limitations must be put on them by legislatures, congress and courts. "The American bar must act, the American Bar association must take the lead," declares the report. As remedies the committee suggests:

First—We can tax them to death, or if that is too radical a remedy, we can tax them until their growth and enlargement is impaired. To avoid constitutional requirement that direct taxes be uniform the report suggests a franchise tax be imposed by states upon corporations at the time of their incorporation.

"Second—We can compel them to render better and cheaper service." It is suggested that a United States statute be enacted requiring "any corporation engaged in interstate commerce to reduce its rates 50 per cent at each point where competition has been prevented by a combine, a merger, common control of agreements."

The report says congress has power to make such enactment.

"Third—If necessary the state itself can enter the industrial field as producer and restore force of competition to its former supremacy by building itself a competitors of great trusts."

Reading of the report was followed by a resolutions by Mr. Busby, of North Carolina, that the report be received and filed because it did not express the association's views.

A substitute for the report was offered by W. L. Royal, of Virginia, the essential ideas of which were that injury done by trusts was through real competition, that is, giving away of goods to destroy weak rivals, or by selling goods below cost for the same purpose. Stop this, he said, and the trust's power for evil is ended. His remedy was that "congress pass laws and establish a corporation commission in each state and territory having complete power on complaint of any person that his rival is trading dishonestly by giving away his goods or selling them below cost, for the purpose of destroying competition to fine the offending corporation to such an extent as will make it offer its goods for sale in fact, instead of in pretense, if it chooses to enter into trade."

The discussion caused much excitement and finally it was agreed the report be taken up at the next session. At the night session William A. Glasgow, of Roanoke, Va., read a paper entitled "A Dangerous Tendency of Legislation." The paper endeavored to show state legislation had a tendency toward paternalism.

Discussion of the trust report continued. After two hours wrangling the report was recommitted with instructions to the committee to report remedies for illegal combinations which threaten commercial intercourse.

SUICIDES IN PAST YEAR

A Record of Fifty Cities Prepared by a Life Insurance Man.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Chicago, in its death rate by suicide, is the third city in the Union, according to an article in the current issue of the Spectator on "The Suicide Record for 1902," by Frederick L. Hoffman of a life insurance company. Statistics for the article were taken from the suicide record of fifty cities having a total population of 14,500,000. Chicago's suicide rate for the decade, 1892 to 1901, was 23.4 per 100,000. It is shown that by comparing the ten years from 1892 to 1901 with the year 1902 suicide increased, the rate per 100,000 population being sixteen for the decade and seventeen for the year 1902.

New York city and the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx stands fifth in the list, but shows a decrease in 1902, with the rate of 21 per 100,000 in that year and 21.2 for the decade. Cities with higher rates than New York for the longer period are: St. Louis, 25.7; Hoboken, 24.6; Chicago, 23.4; Oakland, Cal., 22.5.

All these save St. Louis show an increase in 1902. Hoboken stands out as a horrible example of the entire list with a rate of 35 for last year. The borough of Brooklyn comes ninth in the general list, with a rate of 16.2 for the ten years and 19.3 for 1902.

In the fifty cities included in the general table the totals are 19,709 suicides for the ten years, 1892-1901, and 2,452 in 1902. The figures by nationalities show the rate among native Americans of 6.8 per 100,000, against 6.1 for those of Irish origin, 19.3 for those of German origin and 22 for those of French origin.

LABOR UNIONS CONFER

Heads of Various Organizations Will Discuss Plan to Form National Federation.

Indianapolis, Aug. 27.—The heads of seven national building trades have arrived in this city for a two-days conference that may result in the formation of a national federation of the building trades for the purpose of supporting each other and arbitrating difficulties. The call for the Indianapolis conference sets forth its purposes as follows:

First—The regulation and control of affairs in the building line without having to submit them to men who have no knowledge whatever of their needs and who cannot deal with questions arising from time to time in the building industry in an intelligent manner.

Second—The formation of a closer combination of interests of the organizations engaged in the construction and repair of buildings.

Third—To devise ways and means to protect the autonomy of said trades.

Fourth—To prevent the formation of dual or rival bodies of the same trades.

Fifth—To combat the ever-growing tendency of the employers to crush labor organizations.

GOVERNOR YATES SEEKS RE-ELECTION

Gives Unmistakable Evidence That He is Again a Candidate.

Springfield, Aug. 27.—Governor Yates will be a candidate for re-election. Though the governor did not make formal announcement to that effect, he has left no doubt as to his determination to seek re-election. Before an assemblage of 200 state officers and political advisers at the executive mansion yesterday he delivered a ringing address, the essence of which was that no formidable difficulties exist to prevent his being a candidate, being renominated and re-elected.

It was anticipated that the formal announcement of his candidacy would be made last night, but the governor has deferred action until the latter part of this week. The announcement may possibly be made to day or tomorrow. The governor says he has fixed no exact date for this formality.

The meeting held at the executive mansion yesterday morning was one of the most remarkable ever held in the state. Nearly 100 state officers were present, and as the governor had suggested, each officer came accompanied by some recognized political factor from the respective counties. The assemblage, therefore, numbered nearly 200, with seventy-six counties represented.

YATES ADMINISTRATION REVIEWED
Thus Governor Yates was enabled to scan the gubernatorial situation at a glance. He was assured that there was no formidable opposition to him, and with the unequivocal assurances of yesterday and advices received at other conferences, has determined to seek re-election. In his address which was listened to with intense interest and which elicited almost constant applause, Governor Yates carefully reviewed his administration from economical, humanitarian and executive standpoints, and invited the closest scrutiny of his official career from a standpoint of honesty, conscientious endeavor and tangible results.

For an hour and a half the governor held the attention of his guests who were particularly enthusiastic when he branded as a base fabrication the statement made in certain publications that President Roosevelt though Senator Albert J. Hopkins or others, had advised him not to be a candidate for governor. In most vehement terms the governor branded this statement as false. Waxing warm, he took up other false statements and groundless charges made against him and discussed minutely alleged "reasons why he should not be a candidate." His eloquent analysis of these reasons called forth several enthusiastic responses from those present, and in warm support of his candidacy for re-election.

ANNOUNCEMENT DEFERRED.
Fenton W. Clark, of Marshall, Clark county, was ready with a signed endorsement of Governor Yates' administration, and, addressing the conference, after the governor had concluded, declared that the Republican party and the people of Illinois should and must re-elect Governor Yates. He called upon the governor, exhorting him to make announcement of his candidacy right there and then, but the governor replied that he was "not prepared to make the formal announcement just yet."

Former State Senator Walter Warder, of Cairo, made a brief speech exhorting the governor to announce his candidacy, and declaring that nothing could prevent his re-election because the people of Illinois were with him.

After the meeting, which was held at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, continuing for several hours, those who had been in attendance unanimously declared for Governor Yates. They declared that the governor's speech in which he spoke of "factionalism" was the governor said he recognized that there was some "factionalism," but that all administrations and all parties have factions to contend with, and that his administration had been as free from "factionalism" as those of his predecessors.

After making his formal announcement Governor Yates will make a speaking tour of the state. He has arranged to address the Montgomery county old soldiers at Hillsboro, and this will possibly mark the opening of his speaking tour.

MEXICAN INDIAN COURTSHIP.

bashful Maidens Have to Take the Initiative in Their Love Affairs.
The custom of the country requires the girl to do all the courting. She is just as bashful as the young swan whom she wishes to fascinate, but she has to take the initiative in love affairs, says "Unknown Mexico," by Carl Lunnholz. The young people meet only at the feasts, and after she has got mildly under the influence of the native beer that is liberally consumed by all, she tries to attract his attention by dancing before him in a clumsy way up and down on the same spot. But so bashful is she that she persistently keeps her back turned toward him. She may also sit down near him and pull his blanket and sing to him in a gentle, low voice, a simple love song, such as "Beautiful Man to Be Sure." If occasion requires, the parents of the girl may say to the parents of the boy: "Our daughter wants to marry your son." Then they send the girl to the boy's home, that the young people may become acquainted. For two or three days perhaps they do not speak to each other, but finally she playfully begins to throw pebbles at him. If he does not return them she understands that he does not care for her. If he throws them back at her she knows that she has won him. She lets her blanket drop and runs off into the woods, and he is not long in following her.

WHERE IT ALWAYS RAINS.

There is a group of islands to the south of New Zealand called the Sisters, or Seven Sisters, which are reputed to be subjected to a practically constant rainfall. The same may be said of the islands and mainland of Tierra del Fuego, saving for the difference that the rain often takes the form of sleet and snow. On a line running round the world from four to eight or nine degrees there are patches over which rain seldom ceases to fall. This is called the "zone of constant precipitation," but at the same time there are several localities along it with very little rainfall. London fits in.

The Judge—You are charged with taking the witness stand.
The Prisoner—Yes, your honor, my doctor told me I must take something starchy.—Yonkers Statesman.

Mr. Jesse Phillips, a pioneer citizen of Lawrence, Ill., who is nearly 77 years of age and in his time has used many different medicines, says: "Last winter I used a free sample bottle of Hark's Honey and Horehound for a bad cold and found that it loosened the cough immediately. I then bought a 50c bottle and the medicine cured me very quickly. I consider Hark's Honey and Horehound the best cure for a cough or cold that I have ever used." Old people are urged to try Hark's Honey and Horehound for Coughs, Colds and that stubborn Cough following an attack of La Grippe. 25c, 50c and $1. For sale by Lee E. Alcott, druggist.

AMULETS WORN BY WOMEN.

Many Old Articles Brought as Mascots or Luck Talismans with the Victims.

That many women habitually wear amulets to bring good luck is well known to the bathhouse keepers, to whom patrons turn over their valuables before taking a dip.

According to these authorities, says the New York Sun, the belief in charms is widespread. Stones and bits of metals stamped with quaint markings, little strips of sheepskin or leather bearing a couplet or the symbol of a heavenly body are deposited along with money and keys and other valuables, to say nothing of rabbits' feet, four-leaved clover, wishbones and other witcheries in one guise or another.

And the wearing of these avatars of evil is not confined to any one class or nationality. The well-to-do woman and the well instructed is as apt to have the quaint goods upon her as the untutored. More mascots in the form of ornaments, gems and precious metals are being mounted by the jewelers all the time, and more symbols of occult meaning are ordered by customers to be set in such shape and fashion that they can be worn handsly. The summer girl has her prized piece of jade or magic moonstone locked on a bracelet that cannot slip over her hand and be washed off by the waves, as a ring might be.

This sort of hangle charm is worn openly, even boastfully, as betokening a careful and cautious young person, but dozens of charms are worn secretly within the waist front unsuspected until injury or accident betrays their presence.

The use of charms and amulets has been stimulated lately by the interest taken in psychological topics and the fad for consulting fortune tellers and clairvoyants.

"I've got a mole directly on the back of my neck, an omen of successful fortune, but also threatening sudden accident of one sort or another," said a girl student the other day, as she fingered the charm that hung at her wrist. "This is an old Persian stone celebrated as potent in averting evil and imparting security and self-possession to the wearer. The symbols upon it all have their meaning. I got it from the professor who read my character through three different mediums, and observed this menace of sudden disaster darkening what was otherwise a most auspicious fortune."

It is held that persons born under the two extremes of planetary influence are most addicted to carrying mascots. Those born under the gloomy spell of Saturn wear charms to neutralize the malignity that ever threatens to encompass them, and those born under the beneficent influences of Jupiter and Venus carry amulets to insure their continued run of good fortune.

The Italians of both high and low degree are inveterate believers in the efficacy of charms to ward off evil and invite good. The old spell of the medieval mysteries still holds them in thrall. People of Spanish and Austrian descent are likewise given to charm wearing. Many Americans have of late caught the infection, purchasing birthstones and ancient talismans with avidity, and paying more and more attention to personal characteristics and their meanings as demonstrated by students of the occult. Even the department stores now sell charms.

BLACK LEG APPEARS

Dread Disease Attacks Some Cattle in This Vicinity.

Black-leg has made its appearance among cattle in this vicinity and a few remarks about this fatal disease will be timely.

Otherwise known as symptomatic anthrax, black quarter, quarter evil, carbuncular fever, etc., black-leg is at once the most prevalent and most fatal disease with which cattle are afflicted. It is an incurable disease and nearly all animals attacked die.

Black-leg is a germ disease, the germs entering the body usually with food, but sometimes through scratches or sores. The germs are very hardy and will infect a pasture for years.

They multiply very rapidly and a whole herd is soon infected from one animal. The symptoms are swellings or tumors, generally on the hind quarter, but commonly on the neck or other parts of the body. Other symptoms arising from the same conditions are high fever, dullness, debility, loss of appetite and rumination. Sometimes the animal lies down before any swelling is noticed, and the disease may develop so rapidly that it is unable to rise, death resulting in eight to ten hours. Or it may be able to get up and walk about for a time, but the lameness, stiffness and general condition grow steadily worse, until death occurs in two or three days.

No altogether successful method of treating black-leg has yet been discovered. Various remedies and expedients have been used with more or less success in this vicinity as elsewhere, but the method commonly used now is directed toward the prevention of the disease by vaccination. This means, it is said, has been very successfully employed for a number of years, and much loss thereby averted. Quite a number of the leading stock raisers of this vicinity have already taken steps to prevent the spread of the disease and others have contracted with a leading veterinarian for vaccination of their stock in the near future.

BURGLARIZED.
Some time during Wednesday night burglars entered the residences of H. J. Henderson and Mrs. Mary Baldwin on South Clay avenue and of Mrs. Hattie Glines on Lorton street. At the two former places nothing was taken. At the latter place the burglars gained entrance by cutting and unhooking a screen door at the rear of the house and obtained $7 or $8.

No trace of the burglar or burglars has been discovered. Entrance to the dwellings was evidently effected after the occupants had retired, as nothing wrong was noticed until morning.

VISITS OLD FRIENDS.
M. C. Davenport, of Macoupin county, was talking with Jacksonville friends yesterday. After a residence of twenty-seven years in Morgan county he decided to move to the "state of Macoupin," where he says he has a farm of as good land as lies out of doors. He reports matters in good shape in his vicinity; the crushing debt saddled on the people by the great court house affair is pretty well wiped out and there are good opportunities for getting ahead which all energetic people may avail themselves of if they are so disposed. Mr. Davenport found many old friends glad to see him.

A MAYOR RECOMMENDS IT.
Mr. Paul S. Fuson, the popular mayor of Lincoln, Ill., writes the following strong endorsement of Re-Go Tonic Laxative Syrup. He says: "I am pleased to say that I have used Re-Go Tonic Laxative Syrup in my family for the past three years and regard it as a medicine of rare excellence for the cure of Constipation, Indigestion and Dyspepsia. The pleasant tonic and laxative effect of Re-Go makes it particularly satisfactory for the use of children and delicate women." Samples free. 50c, 50c and $1. Sold by Lee P. Allcott, druggist.

Mrs. Mollie Allen, of South Fork, Ky., says she has prevented attacks of cholera morbus by taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets when she felt an attack coming on. Such attacks are usually caused by indigestion and these Tablets are just what is needed to cleanse the stomach and ward off the approaching attack. Attacks of bilious colic may be prevented in the same way. For sale by all druggists.

Foley's Kidney Cure is a medicine free from opium and will cure any case of kidney trouble that is not beyond the reach of medicine. For sale by J. A. Obermeyer.

RETURNED HOME.

A short time since the readers of the Journal will remember an account of the mysterious absence of William Woodman, Jr., from the home of 134 Clendenon in Los Angeles, Cal. A few days after that was published the young man returned of his own accord. One of two fraternal societies to which he belonged united with his family and friends in a vain search for him and he was well given up for lost. His actions were solely the result of mental derangement from which he was suffering, as his conduct has ever been most upright and he was possessed of ample means for his support. He gradually regained his usual mental condition and when seen a few weeks ago by the writer was about himself again. He is a very estimable young man and his friends and those of his good mother, Aunt Mary Woodman, of this city, will be happy to know that he is about well again. He is a nephew of the late W. C. Woodman, at one time a leading dry goods merchant of this city, and cousin of William Woodman, the well known artist.

ROBBERY AT MEREDOSIA.

A daring robbery occurred in Meredosia recently when a burglar or burglars entered the residence of Isaac Harbert between 7 and 8 o'clock and got away with Mr. Harbert's gold watch and jewelry valued at $75.

The burglars gained entrance to the house by removing a screen from one of the windows and made their escape by unlocking a rear door. Evidently they were unacquainted with the house, as the dresser in which Mrs. Harbert keeps her valuables was not molested.

Bloodhounds were taken to Meredosia from Colchester and twice took a trail from the Harbert home to a shack north of the city occupied by Joe Gaskill. The latter has been placed under arrest awaiting a preliminary hearing.

RECIPE PARTY.

Yesterday afternoon Miss Mae Stevenson gave a pleasant recipe party at her home on West College avenue in honor of Miss Jessie Goltra. It was one of the appetizing gatherings which have become popular of late and was delightful in all particulars. There were about sixteen guests present and each one brought a recipe which it was suggested might be useful to the young lady who expected in a short time to be mistress of a home of her own. The afternoon passed quite happily and the young hostess produced refreshments which showed that some one in that family knew how to make good use of recipes.

AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Rev. C. B. Kindred, pastor of the Englewood Christian church, will preach Sunday morning and evening, at the Christian church of this city. Rev. R. F. Thrapp will preach at Englewood.

Mr. Kindred is a young preacher of great power and is well known to many Jacksonville people. He was raised in Pittsfield and educated at Eureka. The Englewood church of which he is pastor is supporting Mrs. Shaw in the mission field as the church here is supporting Mr. Shaw.

RACES POSTPONED.

An Expensive Tree.

Probably the most expensive tree in the world is in the city of London, on the corner of Cheapside and Wood street, about midway between the Bank of England and St. Paul's. It is an enormous oak, and it is said to be 100 years old. It is protected by a clause in the deed of the property which forbids the destruction of tree or branches. Architects were compelled to plan a rather peculiar building to avoid the branches. There it stands in the corner of one of the busiest streets in London, occupying ground of enormous value—and positively the only tree in the city of London outside of the parks.

Surgery and Morality.

Much interest has lately been aroused in London by two surgical operations which have resulted in a marked change of character in the patients. One was that of a boy of good family who had developed strangely brutal instincts. A clever surgeon examined him with care, located what he considered the seat of the trouble, removed a piece of the skull and thus relieved the deforming pressure. The lad was restored to his parents a normal and lovable child. The other case was that of a soldier who after an injury in a skirmish developed a propensity for theft. An operation on the brain cured him.

A SILENT EVIDENCE.

Some Cause from Which It May Spring and Some Simple Remedies.

Bleeding from the nose may be caused by an injury, such as a violent blow, or sneezing too hard, or snuffing irritating substances up the nostrils, or it may occur as a symptom of constitutional disease. In the latter case it may be the result of any one of several causes. In advanced adult life, for instance, it sometimes means that the person is suffering from Bright's disease or from heart trouble, causing the vessels that feed the brain to become overdistended with blood.

Some people suffer from nosebleed when they climb mountains, or when they first go to live at a much greater altitude than that to which they have been accustomed. In these cases, and in all cases caused by overdistension and pressure, the attack of nosebleed is a direct effort on the part of nature to relieve the system, and is therefore a blessing in disguise, says Youth's Companion.

In young people who are making blood very fast—faster than the system requires—there often occur violent attacks which must be, of course, suitably treated, but need cause no great alarm unless they prove very obstinate to simple remedies. This form of nosebleed will disappear as the patient approaches full life, and the whole system finds its balance.

Certain diseases, such as scarlet fever, typhoid fever, blood-poisoning and erysipelas, are often accompanied by attacks of nosebleed. These attacks are then only one of the many symptoms of a serious disorder, and as such would naturally be dealt with by the physician in attendance.

In the ordinary cases of bleeding from the nose in children or young adults, very simple household remedies are generally all that will be needed. It is only when these attacks become too frequent, or when enough blood is lost to make the sufferer white and weak, that more energetic measures will be needed. There is an old wives' theory that the dropping of a large cold door-key down the back will stop nosebleed. This theory has, as usual, its little germ of truth. If a door-key is the biggest and coldest thing at hand, it would be well to use it in this way. As the virtue, however, does not lie in the key, but in its coldness, cold water compresses applied to the back of the neck and the forehead would do the work quicker and more scientifically. If this has no effect, the sufferer should lie down with the nostrils compressed and the arms raised above the head. Sometimes plugging the nostrils with absorbent cotton soaked in some astringent, such as alum or tannic acid, will be found necessary.

WEDDING GOWN MORALIZING.

In Many Cases There Is Too Much Made of the Nuptial Outfit.

Of perennial interest to women is the wedding gown. But folly is justified of her children, and a pretty wedding is a very pretty sight. But for all that there is too much made of the wedding gown. The newly-engaged girl, with a few exceptions, as soon as the excitement of the proposal has abated somewhat, begins to think of and to discuss her wedding gown, says the Washington Star. Is it to be oryster or ivory white satin? Is it to have a court train? Is the trimming to be lace or chiffon? Are the orange blossoms to be real, and will it be proper for her to wear her "pearls"? The latter point is left undecided, for who can tell the form that the gifts of the bridegroom-elect will take? These may be diamonds! The engaged lover so often breaks out into diamond stars for the heir! If the engagement is short the matter of the wedding garment fills every spare moment—and a few that should be employed otherwise—of the bride-elect's time. In her bridal finery she must eclipse all the girls of her acquaintance who have been married recently. If Minnie Jones had six bridesmaids and one page Ethel Smith must have eight and two small and picturesque mountebanks to bear her train, and her bevy of girls will look "sweet" in crepe de chine instead of flimsy pongee. A writer says: "No matter what the nationality, the color or the social status of the bride who has given her heart to the man she loves, or who has been given to a husband of her parents' choosing, the mirror never reflects to her eyes any more pleasing picture than herself attired in the costume in which she is to enter into the realms of hymeneal bliss. Here is the touch of nature which makes all women kin."

Philippine Melon.

Scald one pint of milk, add two cups of raspberries pulp and juice, pinch salt, yolks of four eggs beaten with two tablespoons of sugar, scald for eight minutes, then add one cupful state, fine graham bread crumbs, beaten whites of the eggs four tablespoons freshly grated coconut. Line a buttered melon mold with state cake or lady fingers, pour mixture in and set in pan of cold water, place in moderate oven to bake one-half hour, cool, then place on ice to chill, unmold and garnish with chipped fresh fruit.—Household Ledger.

Raspberries on Surprise.

Line small buttered cups with a half inch thick slices of state cake and sweetened raspberries. Fill cups nearly full with fine raspberries, packed with sweetened whipped cream, cover the tops with a layer of state cake, turn out carefully, and serve at once with plain or whipped cream.—Home Magazine.

HIS WIFE'S COUSIN.

The Washington man noticed her shortly after he settled himself in his seat in the train at Charlotte, bound for Washington.

She had the chair immediately in front of that of the Washington man, and after he had studied the back of her head for awhile he reached the conclusion that her back hair was of an uncommonly fine chestnut tint.

Presently she tried to raise the window at her side, the car being warm. The window stuck, of course, and equally of course the Washington man was glad that it stuck. It permitted him to execute his little "Pray allow me" stunt.

"That does not make a draught on you, does it?" he asked her solicitously, after opening the window for her.

"By no means," she replied, amiably, partly wheeling her chair in his direction. "Unless it makes too much breeze for you?" she added, inquiringly. "Myself," she went on, "I am almost a fresh air crank."

"Better to err in that respect than the other way," he said, with a grisly attempt at a pun—and so they got to conversing. He told her that he was glad to find one woman who was fond of plenty of fresh air—most women in his opinion, were too partial to stuffiness.

And so, before the train was much more than ten miles away from Charlotte she had her chair wheeled all the way around and they were on very agreeable and chatty terms. When first call for dinner was passed he very politely asked her would she honor him by taking dinner in his company, and, with graciousness equaling his grandiloquence, she consented to do so.

"I guess maybe I'm an old chestnut and wallflower and a shelved proposition in general, if I am 40," he said to himself, with a snort of mental preening, as he led the way to the dining car. Then he added, with a sort of gulp: "Forty—and married."

It was a very pleasant dinner, with the train bounding past the restful, sleepy-looking little southern towns and the sun-swept woods and fields. He suggested that perhaps she would like—or just a little pint of the sparkling—er—that is to say, if she felt that—er—

"Oh, no," she interrupted with her winning smile that showed her perfect teeth. "I never take anything, you know, except at home, and very rarely then."

The Washington man said to himself that he rather admired a woman who didn't drink.

"Women who invariably jump at the chance to imbibe champagne are rather a bore, I think," is the way he framed the thought to himself.

A portly man and his portlier wife and four fat children entered the dining car.

"I adore children," she said to the Washington man. "Do you?"

"Crazy over 'em," he replied.

"You are married?" she asked him, with a delicious uplifting of the brows.

"Now, now—be nice, be nice!" he replied, shaking an arch and warning forefinger at her—and the subject was changed. Oh, it takes the man of 40—and married—to put up the genuine article in the way of archness.

When it came to paying for the dinner she politely but firmly insisted upon paying for her own, whereupon the man from Washington tried to look abused.

The remainder of the ride was just as delightful as the beginning had been for the Washington man.

It was just the beginning of twilight when the train pulled into the station in Washington. He bundled her traps together for her and carried them to the cab stand outside the ladies' waiting room.

"Well?" he said to her, admiring the way her brown traveling veil blew around her winsome face.

"Well, George, you know where you live, don't you?" she said to him, laughing outright.

"George!" he exclaimed, stunned and hoarse.

"George," she repeated, with a rippling confirmatory laugh. "Cousin-in-law George. Please don't look so absurdly surprised or I shall become hysterical," and she went into another peal of musical laughter. "You know I have at least a dozen photographs of you and Gertrude."

He had to swallow quite a number of times before he was able to murmur, in a weak, flaccid sort of tone: "Then you are my wife's Chattanooga cousin, Helen—and I didn't know it, Miss Sly-boots—and you knew I was Gertrude's husband all the time—and you are on a visit to us—how-de-do, how-de-do?"

He looked very foolish, indeed, did this Washington man.

On the way to his home in the hamson he cleared his throat a number of times, and then he said to her: "Er—by the way, Cousin Helen, if I were you I wouldn't say anything to Gertrude about—er—you know—my not recognizing—er—say, 'you played it low down on me, you know—I wish we had as many photographs of you as you have of us and I'd never have—but—er—there's no need of Gertrude being told of how—I understand, don't you?" and he grinned foolishly again.

"Why, certainly I understand, Cousin George!" she reassured him, but she went into another peal of laughter that was mighty unconvincing.

What happened several days ago. The Washington man is now wondering what the occasion is of the half-amused, half-reproachful glances which he sometimes finds his wife bestowing upon him since the arrival on the same train with him of his wife's Cousin Helen.—Washington Star.

HAS BAD TEMPER

Mink the Pike County Murderer Causes Sheriff No End of Trouble.

Pittsfield, Aug. 27.—Fred Mink, the assassin, is proving to be a very troublesome prisoner and has nearly exhausted the patience of his keepers. He seems to delight in destroying any destructible material that he can lay his hands on and making all the trouble he can. The sheriff has had him in irons for some weeks past, but this has not proved altogether effectual, as up to the present time he has managed to break the chains on every pair of shackles that have been put on him. At present, however, he is wearing an extra strong chain, but says he will break it when he gets ready. Mink has been kept in the daytime alone in one of the lower corridors above which is an iron grating and in front of the upper tier of cells is a gallery or walk made of hard pine flooring. One day recently when the sheriff went in to look after the prisoners he found that Mink had gone right up through the pine flooring, breaking it as though it had been made of paper, and was sitting upstairs chatting with the other prisoners. On account of the sanitary arrangements the sheriff finds it almost impossible to keep him locked in a cell all the time. Mink, as can be easily imagined, has a most violent temper and frequently displays it and at such times will say or do anything that comes into his mind. He seems to feel that he is up against a proposition that is just as bad as it can be and that anything that he may do will not make it any worse. A day or two since the sheriff had him locked in a cell and opened the door to pass in a tray on which was his dinner. Mink grabbed the tray and before the sheriff could shut the cell door Mink threw the tray and contents in his face. There were many other like performances of which he has been guilty go to show the kind of a man he is. It is said the other prisoners are all afraid of him and are just as anxious that he shall be kept separate and apart from them as anybody.

WOMAN AND FASHION

and sleeves. Yoke, cuffs and epaulets are plaited, and circular band of plaits adds additional smart touch to the skirt, coming just above the hem.

The Girl in White.
According to reports, there is an American girl who is much sought after in English society who never wears anything but white. Morning, noon and night she rings the changes in white serge, cambrie, tulle, chiffon and satin. "Do as I say, and you will be beautiful," said the great man milliner in Paris. "But I love pale blue, and I love fawn," sighed the girl. "Wear either, and you will be ugly," was the response. So the artist had his way. Few women realize it, but no beauty can rise superior to clothes and hair-dressing, and the greatest beauty may be absolutely disfigured by the things she wears. "If I did not know how to present myself I should be hideous," declares the great Sarah.

Charm of Print Dresses.
Print possesses much simplicity and charm. The white print dress with red spots upon it or the white print dress with narrow black lines upon it may be converted into a thing of signal stylishness. The skirt should be plentifully fashioned, bearing two very large tucks upon the hem, and by the way, the very large tuck known as the finger tuck appears on many of the most elaborate dresses.

The simple gathered bodice to that print dress might have a very deep yoke cut with a long shoulder seam made of Irish lace, and the waist would be encircled by a scarlet leather

A Smart Hat.

Very smart among the late summer styles is a hat of thin white felt. The shape, which is very chic and jaunty.

FOR LATE SUMMER WEAR.

is covered with strips of the felt. At one side is a big black feather pompon, from which springs a stiff white egret.

Hints to the Wise.
The woman who cannot afford to buy a good veil to drape around her hat should not wear one at all, for a flimsy piece of chiffon dangling from one's hat is a sight to make the angel weep.

Another thing: Always fasten the back of your skirt. Nothing is so untidy as to see the placket of your skirt open.

Lace yokes, cut out embroidery and blouses, airy enough for a ballroom, do not look well in crowded downtown streets.

The girl who wears a trim, simple gown shows up much better after a day's shopping than her "airy fairy" sister who will look dowdy if not untidy early in the day.

The girl with "one frock" must have a care in the selection of the material, pattern and color.

What may be worn with good taste once in awhile is bound to prove unsatisfactory if put into everyday use. No matter how becoming a frock may be, resist the temptation to possess it unless it will bear the stress of everyday wear.

Millionaire Butlers.

Lord Ravenscourt's butler, who died the other day, leaving a fortune of £30,000, was by no means a unique instance of a gentleman's gentleman amassing a great fortune. There is a well known Conservative member of parliament who in his early days was a butler in Lord Salisbury's household. The money he saved from his salary and tips he invested in a hotel in South Kensington, which he disposed of some fifteen years later at an enormous profit: Samuel Waugh, who left more than £2,000 when he died six weeks back, had been a butler in the MacLay family for over sixty years. A butler in a decent house may, speaking roughly, count on receiving 22 in tips for every £1 of his salary. In addition to tips, however, an important perquisite is the commission he receives from tradesmen.—London Tatler.

HAS A WAR RECORD

Sailor Gus one of the Carnival Attractions has Been in Many Conflicts.

A. C. Franso, more generally known as "Sailor Gus," is one of the attractions at Central park during the street carnival, and in his small tent near the center of the park he is kept busy many hours of the day following his vocation of a tattooist, in which line he is known as an expert.

Mr. Franso was born at Copenhagen, Denmark, and came to this country when 12 years of age. On his way across the ocean he became fascinated with sailor life and not long after landing in New York city he made application for work on an ocean vessel, and the securing of this position began a career on a merchant vessel, which continued for more than sixteen years. In 1894 he left the merchant marine and enlisted in the United States navy. He began service in the Brooklyn navy yard, being assigned to the Baltimore. He was transferred from this vessel to the Oregon, which was then the largest armored cruiser in the navy. At the time of his transfer to this vessel they were in San Francisco and the Spanish-American war had begun.

It was only a short time when the Oregon received orders to join Admiral Sampson's fleet, which at that time was in pursuit of the second Spanish squadron, which had sailed from Spain for the Cuban islands. Then came the record-breaking run of the Oregon around the cape of South America to join Sampson at Santiago and while on the Oregon under Captain Clark, Franso was appointed coxswain and had charge of the crew working one of the 8-inch guns. He was with Sampson at the battle of Santiago and saw the Spanish fleet destroyed. Going back to Boston, he was again transferred to the Newark and on that vessel sailed to the Philippine islands, arriving there in time to join Admiral Dewey's squadron before he left that port to come to the United States. From there Franso saw service in the Chinese war and a year later returned to the United States and received his discharge papers. While serving in the United States navy he learned from various persons with whom he came in contact the art of tattooing, which he has since followed both for pleasure and profit.

ELKS' CEREMONIAL.

The local lodge of Elks held an initiation and banquet Wednesday evening, at which there was a large attendance of both local and visiting brethren. The initiation ceremony was held in A. O. U. W. hall on the south side of the square and after the goat had been ridden down and the other formal exercises by means of which induction into the order is made, a banquet was held at the Elks' club rooms on the north side of the square. The menu was a tempting one and the banquet committee was composed of Edward Whitmer and J. E. Scott, whose reputations for such work was well sustained.

The candidates who were received into the order that night are as follows: William Wright and G. T. Wright, of Franklin; Charles Judy of Tallula, and F. M. Morton, W. C. Bemis and Dr. C. C. Correll, of this city.

HELD WAITRESS IN BOX.

Spokane (Wash.) Review—Because C. A. James, owner of the Denver house restaurant, corner of Sprague avenue and Lincoln street, would not let her out of a box, Minnie Cutter, a pretty waitress, screamed for help; the other people in the restaurant were frightened; a riot call was sent to the police station, and in a few minutes the restaurant was languishing behind the bars with the charge of carrying concealed weapons against him.

The message to the police station was to the effect that some man was trying to kill his daughter. Detective Burns, with several officers, accompanied the patrol wagon. When they arrived at the eating house Burns found James blocking the entrance to the box with his right leg, while the girls were begging for her liberty. The officers broke down the barrier and searched James. He was armed with a 38-calibre revolver, every chamber of which was loaded.

Miss Cutter, the cause of the difficulty, told Detective Burns she was afraid of James, as he had several times threatened her life. James refused to explain why he had detained the girl in the box against her will.

SHOWED FINE HORSES.

The horse show Thursday morning took place on the north side of the public square and attracted a great deal of interest, as the field of entries was large. The double and single drivers there made a splendid showing and Morgan county could well be proud of the animals. In the double team class the first prize was awarded to H. H. Massey and the second to James Green. Fourteen horses were entered in the contest for single drivers and a good deal of time was spent in speeding them. The judges gave the first prize to C. A. Boston and the second to Jed Cox. The judges were C. F. Correll, Jacksonville; T. W. Votsmeier, Ashland, and Joseph Williams, Joy Prairie.

PROGRAM TO DAY.

Free-for-all to enter: Best double team—First prize, $10.
Best saddle horse, mare or gelding—First prize, $5.

MANY ON TRAINS.

The railroads all did a good business Thursday and the reduced rates served to bring a good crowd to the city. It was not possible to get the number that arrived on the through trains, but it is safe to estimate them at 1,500. The J. & St. L. from the south brought in 356; the Chicago & Alton from the north, 272, and the C. P. & St. L. from the north, 272. The number of people that drove in Thursday was by far the biggest crowd fair week has seen.

FLORETH'S

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

New Little Harold Tried to Grow Another Grandmother.

Harold was a dear little fellow only three years old. His parents had gone to a new country in the far west. It was very different from the city which they had left, with all the dear friends, relatives and, dearest of all, a dear old grandmother.

Mamma had so much to attend to in the new home that she had little time for the children, excepting to keep them clean and give them their meals. Lonesome, indeed, they were, as mother discovered one day in a manner that brought tears to her eyes.

Harold had been very quiet and busy for some time digging a hole in the ground. He had been so earnest about it that when it was completed he went to examine the spot. There she discovered that he had buried a picture of his grandmother.

"Why, Harold," she exclaimed, "what are you doing with this?"

"I thought," said the little man, with tears of loneliness streaming down his cheeks, "if I planted it maybe I could grow another grandma."—Boston Herald.

Just My Luck.

If the boy who exclaims "Just my luck" were truthful he would say, "Just my laziness" or "Just my inattention."

Luck is waiting for something to turn up.

Labor, with keen eyes and strong will, will turn up something.

Luck lies in bed and wishes the postman would bring him news of a legacy.

Labor turns out at 6 o'clock and with a busy pen or ringing hammer lays the foundation of a competence.

Luck whines.

Labor whistles.

Luck relies on chances.

Labor on character.

Luck slips down to indigence.

Labor strides upward to independence.

"Luck," in the Bible sense, is a good old English word: "I wish you good luck in the name of the Lord." But "luck" with no thought of Providence is a bad word.—Northwestern Christian Advocate.

A Question About Firecrackers.

Mr. Magruder had forbidden his boys to buy anything on credit, and one day he called the children and said he wanted to know who had had 5 cents' worth of firecrackers charged to him at the toy store.

The older ones promptly said, "I did not," but the two little ones, John and Harry, seemed not so clear in their statements. John said he had bought 5 cents' worth of firecrackers, with 5 cents Uncle Frank gave him, and one time his mamma gave him 5 cents and he got some firecrackers at the toy store.

"Oh, I don't care about that," his father said. "Did you have 5 cents' worth of firecrackers charged?"

"Little Harry could not stand it any longer. He must make John understand, so he went right up to him and said, 'Johnny, did you ever get 5 cents' worth of crackers with a 5 cents nobody never gave you?'"

The Apple Tree and I.

"Dear apple tree, dear apple tree, Please throw an apple down to me. Yours are so large and fair and round; Please drop me one upon the ground."

"Oh, no, my child, that cannot be." The old tree seemed to say to me. "My apples have all round and fair. Look better high up in the air."

"Oh, apple tree, dear apple tree, If you mean all you say to me, Please make your head bow hard for me. And I'll believe the really so."

And so he shook his head at me. That dear old, stupid apple tree! Down fell the apples at my feet. And we had all that we could eat.—Thomas Tappan in St. Nicholas.

What the Teacher Didn't Know.

Dot—A know something my teacher doesn't know.

Mamma—Indeed, what is that?

"I know when the world is coming to an end and the doom's day."

"Oh, well, so do I know."

"Uncle John," he said the world would come to an end when children stopped asking questions that nobody could answer.

THE AERIAL TRICYCLE.

Novel Air Ship Invented by a Milwaukee Man.

GOT THE IDEA FROM THE FLY.

New Theory of Aerial Navigation—It Was Discovered Accidentally, Says the Inventor—Expects to Win $1,000,000 Prize.

Will Max Cohn of Milwaukee succeeded in "lifting" the $100,000 reward to be given at the St. Louis Louisiana Purchase exhibition to the man who exhibits the most successful air ship? He and many of his friends believe he has applied a principle to his proposed aerial tricycle that cannot fail to achieve this enviable success, says the Milwaukee Sentinel.

"The sailing card" principle is the open sesame to the coffer of the exhibition corporation, according to many who have investigated the novel idea, and Mr. Cohn is busy these days organizing this company which is expected to bring more fame to Milwaukee.

The air ship will be about sixty feet in length and fourteen in diameter. It will be propelled and steered by human energy and have appended to the balloon a sort of tricycle, on which will sit the men who furnish the power and brains necessary to the operation of the great wingless flier.

The propeller will be affixed to the stern of the ship, but the rudder will be in front. This rudder will be in the form of a disk, as will also a pair of planes placed at the sides of the machine. The planes and rudder will all be kept in rapid revolution while the air ship is in motion, and here lies the secret of the inventor's idea.

His machine will weigh but a trifle more than the air it displaces, and it is his belief that by running the machine on its wheels along the ground and starting the propeller sufficient momentum can be attained to raise the slight weight from the earth. The propeller will keep the air ship in motion, while the horizontal disks, tilted upward, will raise the machine and the circular rudder turned either way will give the desired direction. But it is in the revolution of the three disks, which are expected to cut the air as does the revolving card, that the inventor pins his faith.

"Just how I came to form the idea of attempting to solve this difficult and fascinating problem I cannot remember," Mr. Cohn said to a reporter, "but at the age of sixteen I found myself at the task of constructing a flying machine, and I assure you I was so engrossed in it that I neglected my meals and other boyhood pleasures on account of it, and even today I can produce the scroll saw, wood, pieces of cigar boxes, glue, ingeniously constructed pulleys and other parts of this, my first attempt of childhood's fancy, which, as any one can readily imagine, was patterned after the construction of birds. Wherever the occasion presented itself, but never neglecting my duties, I made observations."

"Mischievous led to the discovery of my theory. Here's how it happened. After finishing a commercial course at a Spencerian business college I secured a position as bookkeeper in one of Milwaukee's leading dry goods houses. Here the cash boys, who were perhaps three or four years my junior, devoted their surplus energy and time to all kinds of youthful diversions, and among other things they made some wooden toy pistols which would shoot tiny pieces of cardboard by force of a trigger released rubber band. One day one of these boys tried to amuse himself by shooting at me. Although I often sailed stones or other flat missiles while at play, their action never attracted my attention as these tiny bits of pasteboard did, no doubt because I felt quite a pain when one struck me in the face or on the hands. While trying to evade them I noticed how gracefully and accurately they would revolve through the air, and all of a sudden it flashed through my mind, 'That's just the thing for a rudder in a flying machine.'"

"After that I secretly made experiments with such tiny pieces of cardboard by attempting to throw them with all my might, but always failed to obtain any such results as the toy pistol did by 'shooting' them. Then I concluded to make experiments with larger pieces of pasteboard by twisting them through the air and was delighted with their action, which, satisfied me that my theory was correct and that revolving planes ought to solve the problem of aerial flight. From that time until 1896 I experimented and kept my invention a secret for fear of being known as a crank, and time has demonstrated that my fears were well grounded. By studying and making observations of the flight of birds and the common house fly, which in my opinion surpasses any bird of flight, I eventually evolved an idea of an experimental machine which would embody the cheapest motive power and general construction and at the same time overcome those two other seemingly insurmountable obstacles, equilibrium and initial velocity, the latter being better known to the laity as the 'start.' With these objects in view I intend to make my first machine in the form of a tricycle."

Trump Paid $5 Per Seat.

Mrs. Philip Cohen of 1308 Otter street, says, a Franklin (Pa.) dispatch gave word to a tramp. He ate so rapidly that she again filled his plate, following with a third portion. While the man was passing the pantry window she saw him throw something through it. She picked it up and found it to be a five dollar bill.

CONDENSED STORIES.

Charles Jefferson and the Sisters.

Under the management of Charles B. Jefferson, Anna Osterman (Anita Belmont) played Lucy in "Hands Across the Sea." Afterward she was offered a place in Sol Smith Russell's company, and Mr. Jefferson asked her to suggest some one as her successor. So Anna suggested Sister Bessie. Bessie was sent for, played the part for awhile, and then decided to marry and leave the stage. She thought Sister Kathryn could play Lucy.

"Telegraph Kathryn immediately!" Jefferson ordered. Kathryn arrived, but soon attracted the attention of Stuart Robson, who engaged her for his leading woman.

Jefferson was in despair. "I suppose there are no more sisters," he said ironically.

"Well, there's my sister Lillian," "Hurrah!" cried Jefferson. "Send for Lillian."

When she announced her intention of leaving, Mr. Jefferson viewed the situation composedly.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but will you please telegraph your sister?"

"There are no more," said Lillian mournfully.

And then Jefferson wept. "Was ever fate more unkind?" he wailed.

Did He Get the Fry?

Will J. Lampton, the poet, is telling a sweetly poetic story these days and he insists that it is perfectly true, says the Washington Post. Once upon a day he was making a driving tour through the country near Harpers Ferry and stopped at a little wayside inn for refreshment.

"GET OUT OF THAT PAN, JIM!"

A sign in the window announced that oysters in all styles were to be had, and Mr. Lampton ordered a fry.

"Don't you want a stew?" asked the man in charge.

"No," said Mr. Lampton, "I want a fry."

"Raw wouldn't do, would it?"

"No," repeated the poet, "I want a fry."

The man walked over to the stove and sought the frying pan. It was lying on the floor.

"Here!" said the man. "Get out of that pan, Jim. The gentleman wants a fry."

Jim was a harmless, necessary cat.

Major Pond's Last Joke.

Few Americans have been more fortunate in making personal friends than Major Pond, who died recently from shock following the amputation of his leg. He was the pioneer in the effort to bring famous European men of letters into direct touch with popular audiences on this side of the Atlantic.

As many good stories are told of him as he told of others, and the latest is one of the most characteristic. When he was recovering from the effects of the anesthetic after the operation, he looked around, glanced downward and quietly asked the surgeon if it was all over. The surgeon nodded.

"So I've got only one foot now?"

"Yes, major," was the reply.

"Well, then, I'll have to ask my friends to give me a leg up."

Not Separable.

In a western town recently while David Wardell was playing "The Auctioneer" the performance was witnessed by a number of girls from a local seminary, relates an exchange. They were much pleased with the actor's work—so much so, in fact, that each of them wrote her name on a programme, the original of the scheme adding the line, "Can we see you apart?" The message was duly delivered by one of the maids and reached the star just as he was making up for the second act. Taking a red pencil, one of the "props," he wrote the following reply: "Thanks, awfully, but I don't come apart. Am all in one piece."

RETAINS HIS TITLE.

Lincoln, Ill., Aug. 27.—With an automatic Winchester rifle Captain A. H. Bogardus, the retired champion shot the world, yesterday accomplished a new feat in marksmanship at the age of 70. At a distance of thirty-three feet from a target three inches in diameter and loading his own gun, he fired 100 shots in exactly three minutes without missing the target.

NOT OVER-WISE.

There is an old allegorical picture of a girl scared at a grass-hopper, but in the act of heedlessly treading on a snake. This is paralleled by the man who spends a large sum of money building a cyclone cellar, but neglects to provide his family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a safeguard against bowel complaints, whose victims outnumber those of the cyclone a hundred to one. This remedy is everywhere recognized as the most prompt and reliable medicine in use for these diseases. For sale by all druggists.

SOMETHING GOOD.

This paper can render no greater service to its many readers than to acquaint them with a really meritorious medicine. Re-Go Tonic Laxative Syrup, advertised in these columns is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric and dangerous soothing drops, and is said to be the most pleasant and reliable medicine in use for the quick and certain cure for Constipation and Flatulency. It contains no opium, morphine or other narcotic and stupefying drugs. For children it aids nature in digesting and assimilating the food and insures healthy, natural sleep. Re-Go Tonic Laxative Syrup is a certain cure for all stomach troubles; 25c, 50c and $1 bottles. Sold by Lee P. Allcott, druggist.

CONSUMPTION THREATENED.

C. Unger, 211 Maple street, Champaign, Ill., writes: "I was troubled with a hacking cough for a year and I thought I had consumption. I tried a great many remedies and was under the care of physicians for several months. I used one bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. It cured me and I have not been troubled since." For sale by J. A. Obermeyer.

A NATURAL RESULT.

It is very reasonable to suppose if the foundation of a structure was removed that the building itself is bound to come down. This same principle can be applied to disease. Take remove the cause of sickness, and the illness leaves of itself. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, sickheadache and biliousness have their foundation in stomach disorders. Remove this weakness and the other symptoms are no more. There is one cure for this that all druggists sell for 25c per box, it is called Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pilla. They get right at the beginning of these diseases and make the cure by taking away the cause of it. We will send a small box free by mail, or a large box on receipt of 25c. Address Dr. Gunn, Philadelphia, Pa. For sale by Lee P. Allcott.

SURE CURE FOR PILES.

Itching Piles produce moisture and cause itching, this form, as well as Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles are cured by Dr. Bo-san-ko's Pile Remedy. Stops itching and bleeding. Absorbs tumors. 50c a jar at druggists, or sent by mail. Treatise free. Write me about your case. Dr. Bo-san-ko, Philadelphia, Pa. For sale by Lee P. Allcott.

DYSENTERY CURED WITHOUT THE AID OF A DOCTOR.

"I am just up from a hard spell of the flux" (dysentery), says Mr. T. A. Pinner, a well known merchant of Drummond, Tenn. "I used one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and was cured without having a doctor. I consider it the best cholera medicine in the world." There is no need of employing a doctor when this remedy is used, for no doctor can prescribe a better medicine for bowel complaint in any form either for children or adults. It never fails and is pleasant to take. For sale by all druggists.

City and County

James Hurst, of Nortonville, was here on business Thursday.

Herman Butler, from the coal village of Tallula, was a carnival visitor yesterday.

Miss Maggie Donahue, of Franklin, is visiting Jacksonville friends for a few days.

Miss Madge Fisher, of Ashland, was a guest at the pleasant home of Miss Madge Lewis yesterday.

Miss Lizzie Brennan, of Beardstown, was one of the many visitors in the city yesterday.

Miss Mabelle Parrott has gone to Chicago for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Joseph Gettys, at the Chicago Beach hotel.

Wm. Tuke, of Scott county, was calling on Jacksonville friends yesterday. He was at one time a resident of Morgan county, but decided to cast in his lot with little Scott. He says crops are picking up greatly since the warm weather set in and with reasonable rains there will be a fairly good yield of pretty much all yet to come.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sharpe, of Griggsville, were among the Pike county visitors yesterday. To those who have known the gentleman these many years it seems most wonderfully strange to write "Mrs. Wm. Sharpe," but so it is and it must be added that the worthy citizen of Pike bears his wedded honors of about a year with all becoming grace and dignity; albeit those who know him best claim that he is rather more subdued than he used to be, though the lady who has consented to share his life's fortunes has a very amiable disposition and gentle ways.

Miss Hazel Hoos, of Hillsboro, is visiting with Miss Jeanette Leck.

Wanted—Men to drive teams. Walton & Co.

Dr. C. M. Brown returned last night from a six weeks' vacation. The first two weeks he occupied the pulpit of the Second Christian church in St. Louis and went from there to Westfield, Wis. Dr. Brown has enjoyed this vacation thoroughly and has come home in excellent health.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

Woman Claiming This City as Her Home Sought to End Life.

A telegram from Taylorville last night said: "Mrs. William Church, of Jacksonville, while visiting her husband here at the home of Jefferson Pennington, attempted to commit suicide. The woman was found with a rope about her neck hanging from the rafters of an outhouse. A member of the household found Mrs. Church in this condition, cut the rope and sent for a physician. The woman was unconscious and almost pulseless, but revived after the physician had worked over her for an hour. She refused to give any explanation for her evident desire to end her life."

The Journal was unable last night to find trace of a Mrs. William Church, who makes Jacksonville her home. The name does not appear in the city directory and no one was found who knew of such a woman.

FUNERALS.

WIGHT.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Ann C. Wight was conducted from the residence at 1144 South Main street Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The services were in charge of Dr. W. F. Short and to the very large attendance of friends and relatives he spoke most appropriately of the life of the deceased, and of her strong and abiding faith in the Master whom she has gone to serve. A choir consisting of Mrs. John Goltra and Mrs. J. Weir Elliott, Miss Ailsie Goodrick, John L. Johnson and T. H. Rapp, sang several sacred selections. The pall bearers were John H. Woods, S. C. Brockman, E. P. Jones, S. R. Capps, J. W. Melton and Hassel Hopper. Many beautiful flowers bore silent testimony to the high esteem in which Mrs. Wight was held. Interment was in Diamond Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Mary E. Ketcham, formerly of this city, died at her home in Kansas City Monday after an extended illness. The immediate cause of her death was a stroke of paralysis.

Deceased was a daughter of Lewis H. Hatfield, formerly a prominent shoe dealer of this city. She made this city her home until about two years ago, when, with her sister, Miss Libby Hatfield, she removed to Kansas City, where she made her home with her brother, Lewis Hatfield, until the time of her death.

Many friends of the deceased in this city will be greatly grieved to learn of her death. She is survived by one sister, Miss Libby Hatfield, of Kansas City, and two brothers, Lewis H. Hatfield, of Kansas City, and Elmer E. Hatfield, of this city.

The funeral services were held in Kansas City Thursday afternoon and interment also was made there.

KILLAM.

Samuel E. Killam, formerly a Morgan county resident, died at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon at his home in Carlinville, after a lingering illness. Mr. Killam was 68 years of age and is survived by his wife and one son, the latter now a resident of Hot Springs, Ark. The deceased was a brother of Mrs. John Ransom. He was a man of influence and was respected by all who knew him.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

THE FOURTH DAY

Corn Carnival Attendance Was Large Thursday—Many Out of Town Visitors.

The largest crowd that has attended the street fair and corn carnival was here Thursday. The trains from all directions brought in a large number of excursionists and the shows in Central park profited thereby. The rain in the afternoon drove people to shelter for a short time, but it did not last long enough to interfere in any way with the fair program. Trade was not materially stimulated by the excursionists, although merchants report the day as the best of the week. The ice cream parlors and soda fountains did tremendous business and their patronage was certainly all that could be desired.

The merry-go-rounds and miniature railroad had steam up from early morning until late at night and there was always somebody waiting for the next ride.

The usual crowd promenaded the square and streets leading from the square in the evening, but the down-pour of rain sent them home early and the shows in the park were only lightly attended. The Markee band gave concerts on East and West State streets during the day and they certainly made splendid music. The free attractions were given as advertised and were watched by large numbers.

The zoo, the laughing parlor, electric palace and theatre and voyage to the moon all did good business and are a class of attractions that are well worth the price of admission and are entertaining and instructive.

The small boy is quite numerous and is having more fun than anybody. He seems to be making the most of every minute of his time, doubtless realizing that the days of vacation are numbered and that he soon will be pouring over his school books and under the stern command of the pedagogue.

To day and to tomorrow are the last days and Saturday especially will witness a large crowd, as the dust has been laid by the rain and the country roads will be in fine condition for travel.

NOT LONGEST LEGS BUT GRIT.

James Haines, Sr., tells the following amusing anecdote in the Peoria Journal of the early campaigning days of Stephen A. Douglas:

The late Stephen A. Douglas, the "Little Giant" of early days, used to tell of funny events happening him on his political campaigns. One I recall:

He then lived at Winchester, Scott county, Ill., and his congressional district embraced Alton and the American bottoms east of St. Louis.

In mid autumn he found himself compelled to stay over night at the cabin home of a political friend. The family would have been the delight of President Roosevelt as to numbers if not as to politics and otherwise.

After a bountiful pioneer supper, the probable result of the congressional race was freely discussed until bedtime thinned out occupants of the cabin of one room below and a loft above. The boys climbed the ladder to the loft, the elders and girls retiring to shake-downs on the floor and trundle beds under the two bedsteads in the room. The candidate would, of course, occupy the best bedstead and sleeping outfit in one corner under the ladder. The eldest daughter, a bright, lively girl of 15 or 16 years, remained up last of the family to see to any last wants of the retiring great man. This process he at once instituted with only the slender ladder between him and the chatty girl standing in front of the blazing cabin fire, continuing the conversation lazily dropped by her father, now snoring in the other bedstead. Conversation is the best maintained when looking at the object of it, and so the girl's face was towards the retiring guest. The candidate while disarming had no protection from the bright eyes of his vis-a-vis except the infrequent rungs or steps of the ladder leading to the loft, and he mentally compared his exposed condition to the frail relief the side railings of the bridge of Lodi gave Napoleon's army crossing against the constant patter of bullets and grapeshot from their enemies, the Austrian soldiers.

Luckily man's raiment is little complicated, or was at that day, with many parts attached by bloodthirsty pins and buckles from which our sisters suffer delay and pricks in disrobing. Boots and socks, coat, vest and cumbrous stock around the neck was all the raiment to be shed before striking the pillow. This stage he had hastily approached while the girl still rattled on about the probable result of the congressional race then on. As a last cheer for his success in the election and getting snugly under the covers of his bed, she sang out: "Really, Mr. Douglas, you seem to have a very small chance of legs to beat that great strapping Tom Jones you are running against. But Dad says it is not the longest legs but the grit a candidate has that brings him ahead at the end of the race."

This delivered full and straight at the candidate in his dishabille state through the opened ladder acted like an electric battery full charged energizing "that small chance of legs" to plunge his body deep into the waiting uncovered sixty-pound feather bed at his side.

Douglas had the grit that supplied the lack of legs and brought him in far ahead of his long-legged opponent.

THE MATRIMONIAL RECORD.

LUTTRELL-CLINE.

Burl Luttrell and Miss Gertrude Cline, both of Franklin, were married Thursday afternoon about 2 o'clock by Esquire Gray at the county clerk's office. Both are highly respected young people in the community in which they live and they will reside on a farm near Franklin.

LAIR-SWIFT.

Thomas J. Lair, of this city, formerly of Kentucky, and Miss Elizabeth Swift, of 307 North Main street, were married at the court house at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon by Esquire Albert Arenz. The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. William Pollock, of Roodhouse, parents of the bride, and Mrs. Emma P. Bell, of Havana, cousin, and Mrs. Zella Pollock, sister-in-law. Heartly congratulations were extended the young people.

THE COUNTRY STORE.

The country store in front of the W. L. Alexander Mercantile Co., was not one of the much heralded attractions of carnival week, but is proving one of the main features, nevertheless. Here's where you chance a chance that is a chance and every chance you chance you wonder at your chance. You can't lose. You always win. It's ten cents for everybody with nobody barred out of business, but it will be open again this morning with a brand new stock. Positively no water marked goods will be offered. Remember, only two more days of this grand, genuine giving away sale. Come and be convinced of the consistence of this commendatory catalogue of contentment producing commodities.

SUIT OVER GOLF BALLS.

Akron, Ohio, Aug. 27.—The Akron Rubber company has started several suits for infringement against other manufacturers of golf balls, more particularly Spalding & Bro., of Chicago. The claim that the Haskell balls hold the absolute patent for rubber-cored balls and the others are imitators. The action is being pushed vigorously.

The claim is made to the Haskell that they will carry farther than any other ball ever made, and that in the hands of a good golf player better work is done, and if the ball is struck fair there is no danger of cutting.

ILLINOIS NEWS.
